

ASSOCIATIONS IN AFRICA

Potentials and Challenges

As a teaser to the Special Africa Supplement to be published early 2015, we have chosen here to examine continental trends across diverse nations in Africa. This of course can provide some challenges. Evident are the historic and current factors which support associational life: post-colonial connections (e.g. Commonwealth & Francophonie), regional multinational groupings (e.g. SADC), and intergovernmental seats of activity (UN Nairobi).

How mobile internet access allows people to overcome traditional challenges (information awareness and travel distances) to association activity will need to be studied in the coming years.

The following articles, all available online, provide a sense of the complexity of the relationships involved in the growing population of associations in Africa:

COUNTRIES IN WHICH NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANISATION HEADQUARTERS ARE LOCATED, RANKED BY CONTINENT

COUNTRY PARTICIPATION (IE MEMBERSHIP) IN INTERNATIONAL NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANISATIONS, RANKED BY CONTINENT

The charts presented here are prepared from extracts from the Yearbook of International Organisations 2014/2015 edition: The data used presents the top twenty countries for all Yearbook categories except inactive and unconfirmed bodies.

In reviewing the data from five and ten years ago we see similar trends in the countries in these tables. Countries with higher industrial economies, relative socio-political stability and/or the seats of inter-governmental bodies show a higher level of INGO headquarters locations and high country participation in international associations generally.
