

UIA Survey on International Meeting Issues – 2022 (continued COVID 19 Impact on International Association Meetings)

Sponsorship and advertising options

The UIA Surveys on International Meeting Issues canvass international associations representing civic, charitable, commercial or industrial interests around the world on their behavior and opinions pertaining to their meetings and conference organization. It was first held in 1985, and most recently in 2021.

The COVID 19 pandemic continues to have a tremendous impact on the global travel and meetings industry and on the meetings behaviour of international associations. The UIA Survey on International Meeting Issues – 2022 (continued COVID 19 Impact on International Association Meetings) will continue to explore on the changed approach of associations, when planning and organizing their international events.

For the UIA Survey 2022 about 25,000 international associations will receive an email invitation to participate. Participating associations complete the Survey online. The results are presented in a report in PDF format and are available free to the world for a two-year period via a dedicated page on our website. (*)

Circulation and target group

UIA invites approximately 25,000 international associations worldwide (international non-governmental associations and intergovernmental organizations) to participate in the Survey. UIA's average response rate from associations is over 35%. Additionally, all associations can access the Survey at any time when they login to their UIA dashboard.

Timing

UIA sends the invitation to the Survey to associations, at least monthly, from March to October 2022.

Publication of results

UIA publishes the Survey Report in November 2022. The Report is:

- available on the UIA website for general public access (*); the access page includes hyperlinked sponsor logos; the Report includes hyperlinked sponsor ads
