Database: International Organizations

Link type: all Network nodes: 67

The image presents the 67 conventional intergovernmental organizations that are universal or intercontinental in membership. They are of Types A to C in the Yearbook of International Organizations. It does not include those that are associated primarily with single continents (Type D) or those that are of an unconventional form (eg networks, banks, funds, or subsidiary bodies). The names appear around the circumference (and may be viewed on the accompanying CD). The image above shows the formal relations between the 67 bodies (whether working relations, membership or any other form). These links are presented as curves in an effort to emphasize the nature of this particular intergovernmental world.
