

Figure 10.1.7. International Council for Science (ICSU)

Database: International Organizations

Link type: NGO relations

Network nodes: 351

UIA database: <http://db.uia.org/scripts/sweb.dll/uiaf?DD=OR&DR=A1752>

Aims: For the benefit of humankind, encourage international scientific activity serving scientific and technological development and so help promote the cause of peace and international security throughout the world; facilitate and coordinate activities of international scientific unions; stimulate, design and coordinate international interdisciplinary scientific research projects and scientific education; facilitate coordination of the international scientific activities of national members; through the intermediary of national adhering organizations, enter into relations with the governments of their respective countries in order to promote scientific research in these countries; maintain relations with the United Nations and its agencies and with other intergovernmental or international nongovernmental organizations.