The purpose of the Human Development Project of the UIA is to describe briefly the complete range of concepts of human development with which people identify, consider meaningful or reject in their search for growth and fulfilment in life. The scope of this project has been deliberately extended beyond the unrelated concepts accepted with great caution by intergovernmental agencies: the job-fulfilment orientation of ILO, the health-oriented concepts of WHO and the education-oriented concepts of UNESCO. It includes concepts legitimated by the psychological and psychoanalytical establishments as well as those promoted by the various contemporary growth movements. It also includes concepts from religions and from belief systems of different cultures. Entries are included on explicit concepts of human development and on therapies, activities or experiences in which a particular understanding of human development is implicit. There are more than 4,000 entries in this database that are interconnected by more than 15,000 links. The purpose of the above image is not informative, as it is impossible to read the myriad of overlaying titles, but emotive. It attempts to evoke, in its own way, a feeling of complexity that is held by this particular body of knowledge.
