

Figure 1.2.3. Types of organization

Historical overview of number of international organizations by type: 2008

Presented in this table is an historical overview of the number of international organizations listed in the database of the Yearbook of International Organizations from 1909 to the current year. The organizations are totalled by type (see the Appendix "Types of organization") and by whether they are intergovernmental or not.

The introductory notes to Figure 1.1.1.(a) are also applicable here. In addition:

- The 1909 edition listed here is the "Annuaire de la Vie Internationale", published by the UIA prior to the Yearbook series.
- Early editions of the Yearbook covered only conventional international bodies such as are now (since 1981) included in Types A B C and D.
- From 1954 to 1964 only national NGOs with consultative status at ECOSOC were included in the Yearbook. From 1966 other national NGOs were included. This broadening of criteria eventually led to the division of organizations into two Sections (see following remark).
- From 1962 to 1972 NGOs created in relation to the EEC or EFTA communities were treated as "secondary entries". Since 1981 they are included in Type E.
- From 1976 to 1978 organizations were divided into 2 Sections: "Section A" comprised what is now (since 1981) organizations of Types A B C and D; "Section B" comprised what is now (since 1981) organizations of Types E F G and H. In creating "Section B" in 1976, the criteria for "Section A" were maintained, but some borderline cases were reallocated from "Section A" to "Section B".
- Defunct or dormant international organizations were originally treated as "secondary entries". From 1976 they were included in "Section B". Since 1981 they are included as either Type H or Type U, depending on the Type to which they were classified when still active.
- In 1983 no distinction is made between NGO and IGO bodies for Types J K and U.
- Religious orders were included in Type F until 1983. In 1983 they were transferred to a new Type R.
- From 1984 to 1986 international organizations of a commercial nature were moved from Type F to a new Type M. Since 1985 they are again included in Type F, and only governmental enterprises are considered and these are subject to more rigorous criteria.
- Conference series were included in Type F until 1985. In 1985 they were transferred to a new Type S.
- In 1989 more radical criteria were applied to exclude apparently less active or less "international" bodies. In 1992 these criteria were again broadened and Type N was created in order to maintain an index trace on organizations which appear to international. Some organizations were then moved from Type G to the new Type N.
- From 1981 to 1983 Type U was only used for unconfirmed and untraceable bodies from the past. Since 1984 this type is also used to maintain an index trace on inactive bodies previously included in Types E and F. Since 1989 only inactive bodies previously included in Types E, F, G, K or N are included in Type U.
